Rebecca

- Separation of concerns/modularity
 - Shouldn't have string of HTML in the model (User model)
 - Don't include style attributes in HTML tags, include in CSS files instead
 - Don't include javascript in HTML, include in separate javascript files instead

Michelle

- In your controllers, remove any methods that are empty or aren't being used
 - Remove commented code also

Tyler

- More organized views
 - use more partials (you use some, but certain files could benefit more) to avoid extremely long view files
 - keeping javascript, styling, etc. in their own files also neatens your views

Jonathan

- Lot's of security holes
 - All controllers should check that user has correct permissions (currently only done in some of your controllers)
 - Need to make sure that your non RESTful actions check permissions too
 - Reducing controller size/complexity would make security easier
